

1. The B3011 ECL multiplier-accumulator from Bipolar Integrated Technology has dual input registers and dual accumulators as well as a direct input path to its adder. The device's architecture meshes well with pipelined processes, while its speed cuts by 80% the present benchmark time for multiply-add operations.